Fuengirola, Spain, November 6th, 2020 — Comunica Translations (COMUNICA), a boutique translation agency specializing in Nordic languages, has recently expanded its full suite of linguistic services to now offer professional medical translation services directly to end clients. COVID-19 is again on the rise in many corners of the globe. With years of experience offering medical translations as a subcontractor, COMUNICA is pleased to lend a hand in fighting this global pandemic, now offering highly specialized translation services directly to the medical, pharmaceutical, and medical device industries.

As a well-known and respected translation agency, COMUNICA translates over 8 million words per year with a team of 5 in-house Nordic translators and over 300 professional freelancers many of whom are specialized in the medical field. With each medical translation project, COMUNICA creates client-specific glossaries and translation memories. Having spared no expense, COMUNICA has invested in very advanced translation tools saving significant costs for their clients.

Whether you require professional translation of your SPCs, PILs, QRDs, clinical trials, or medical reports, COMUNICA will create a customized translation team for your project. The company's medical translators closely follow the Standard Terms and International Nonproprietary Names (INN) resulting in translated texts that are consistent, clear and easy to use. When you partner with COMUNICA, you will be assigned your own team of translators along with a dedicated project manager who will strictly adhere to the required high-quality standards within the medical field.

About COMUNICA

Tina Julsgaard, COMUNICA's Managing Director, founded the company back in 2007 motivated by her passion for languages and for helping customers do business abroad. With a deep fascination for cross-cultural comprehension, Tina has since built a successful team of professional linguists who work closely with each client, helping them with their global communication needs. COMUNICA — your translation gateway to the Nordic languages.

If you are looking for professional medical translation services, please reach out to COMUNICA today. Want to learn more? Meet the COMUNICA team or give the company a call at +34 952 469 807. COMUNICA adheres to the recommendations of EN15038 European Quality Standard for Translation Services.
